Russia's richest woman to sell building empire

Shishkhanov is believed by analysts to represent the business interests of his uncle, Mikhail Gutseriyev, an oil tycoon forced to flee Russia for London in 2007 after he was charged with tax evasion. Mr Gutseriyev, however, was permitted to return to Russia last year with the charges against him dropped, in part with the help of the intermediation of Mr Kadyrov, who rules the violence wracked Chechen republic in the North Caucasus as the Kremlin's strongman. Sberbank's participation in the deal indicates the Kremlin's blessing for the sale, Mr Petrov added
